ABOUT CROATIA

Although Croatia is not a large country, it is a land that is Mediterranean and Central European, bordering Slovenia in the west, Hungary in the north, Serbia and Bosnia and Herzegovina in the east and Italy in the south. You will be amazed to find so much history, so much beauty and so many perfect holiday destinations in such a small country. Croatia's history dates back thousands of years, with many historic buildings from the first decade perfectly preserved.

The climate is Mediterranean along the Adriatic coast, meaning warm dry summers and mild winters, with 2,600 hours of sunlight on average yearly - it is one of the sunniest coastlines in Europe! In the country inland, the climate is continental with hot summers and cold, snowy winters.

The capital of Croatia is the city of Zagreb (population about 1,000,000), very old and pleasant city, mentioned for the first time in 1094. In former Yugoslavia Zagreb was a leading industrial, cultural and scientific center.

If you're visiting Croatia you can't go past Dubrovnik. Dubrovnik is the most magnificent and well preserved fortified city in the world. Its history dates back to the 6th century. The old city is fully encapsulated by its fortified walls stretching 1940 meters. The walls are at their highest point 25 meters and up to 6 meters thick. These impregnable walls have helped maintain this city's history, culture and beauty.

If you prefer to explore, you can choose one of the 1185 Islands of Croatia, many of the larger Islands are inhabited. Every Island has its own unique history and attributes.

If it is a beach what you prefer, why not go to one of the Islands, well at least for the day, there are hundreds to choose from.

If you prefer nature, then you can't go past Croatia's National Parks, Croatia has 8 national parks, and 10 nature parks.

"Bill Gates likes to spend his holidays in Croatia, a small European country situated just across Italy. At least that's what he told Forbes ..."

Attracting a wide range of guests, Croatia has developed and maintained an infrastructure suitable for both adventurers and guests seeking a certain level of comfort. We systematically and permanently try to raise the price/ quality ratio to a higher level, at the same time complying with the postulates of sustainable development and producing a harmonious satisfaction for both the guest/ service user and the host/service provider. Croatia still tries to offer satisfaction and experiences even for the most demanding ones. This is confirmed by what have become traditional arrivals of royal and princely families, musicians, painters and members of powerful business dynasties on the Adriatic coast in summer months.

Croatia is also a great natural and historical stage for many unique festivals, exhibitions, concerts and events such as the Dubrovnik Summer Games, Split Summer, Rab Fjera, Pula and Motovun Film Festivals, or the Špancirfest in Varaždin.

Organizers of many international and other gatherings already held here remember the professionalism of their hosts, their hospitality and inventiveness. All combined, this forms an ideal framework for events that are not only memorable but which enter the history of associations, corporations and other organizations as the most professionally organized and most meaningful. And it is precisely for that reason that a number of them have chosen Croatia as their permanent venue.

CNN recommended Dalmatia in Croatia as the best gastronomy destination in the world for summer holidays 2009.
